

Reclaim the Street!

Local resident action can stop Lorry parking on Cheriton High Street slip-road opposite Tesco's - with YOUR help.

Despite years of requests from local residents, Lib Dem campaigners and others to Kent County Council to deal with the menace of lorry parking opposite Tesco's, no action has been taken.

KCC claim they have a plan to deal with the problem, but other projects keep getting funding priority.

Local campaigner Tim Prater wants to work with local residents to deal with the problem NOW:

"If the council won't help, then we must stop the lorry parkers ourselves."

"It's legal to park in that layby - which is what the lorries themselves are relying on.

We should reclaim the area as a Cheriton Residents' Free Parking Area.

"With cars parked in that area, lorries would have no way to park. And if the lorries can't park, many of the problems of noise, rubbish and damage to the verges will also be removed."

Local residents are being asked to park in that layby from noon on Saturday. Lorries can't be forced to move, but as soon as they do move, cars need to fill the available spaces.

Local Lib Dem campaigners will be in place from Saturday at noon, starting to reclaim the layby, flattening the verge, clearing litter and erecting signs.

After Saturday, please consider parking on the slip-road whenever you see a space - reducing street parking congestion in Roman Way, Samian Crescent and Canada Close, and reclaiming the street for Cheriton from the lorry drivers.
